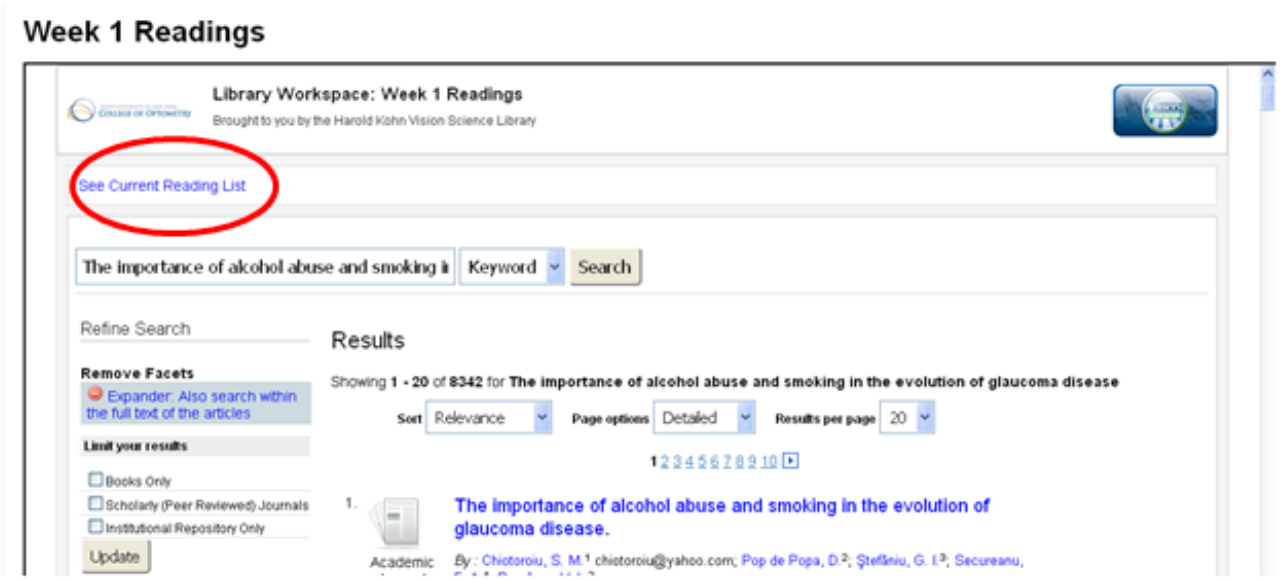
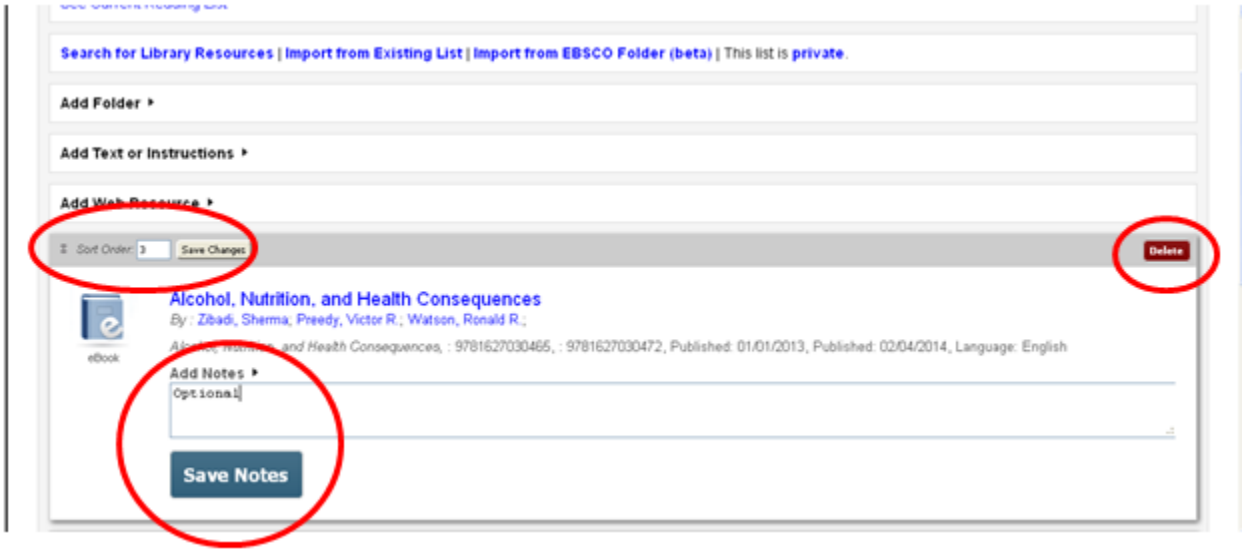
Add to Reading List

After adding the items you have chosen. Click “See current reading list” to annotate and order the items.



From here you can change the sorting order, add notes, and/or delete items from the list.

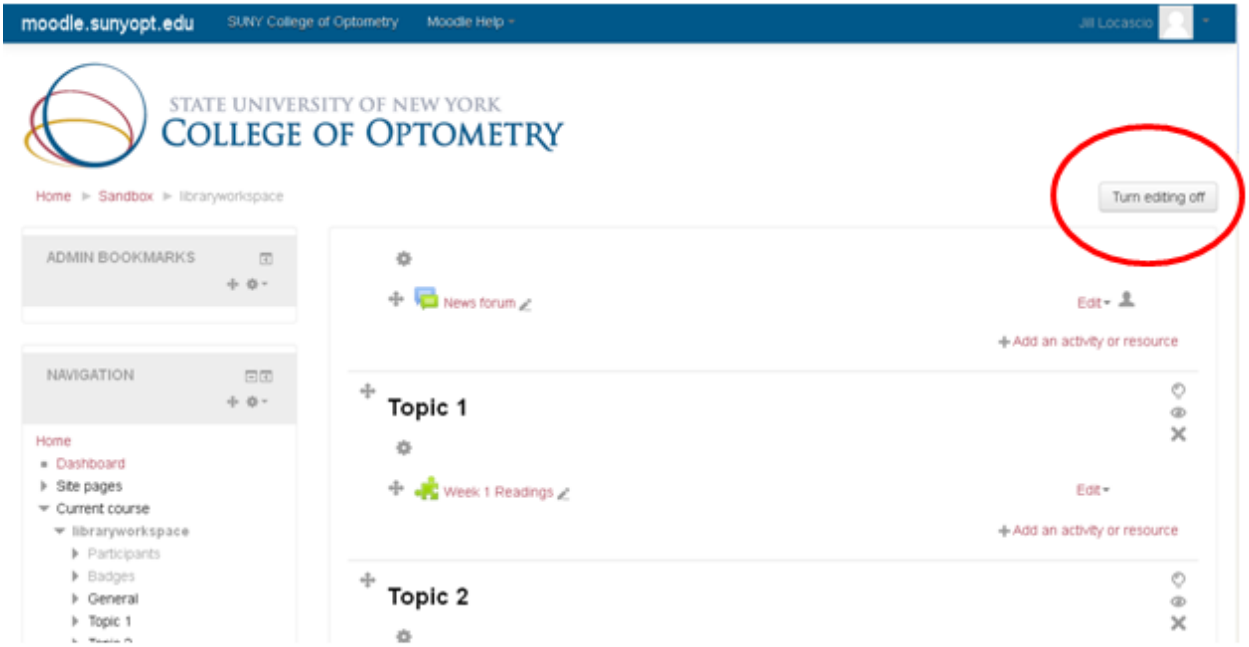


You may also choose to add a link to a website to your reading list.

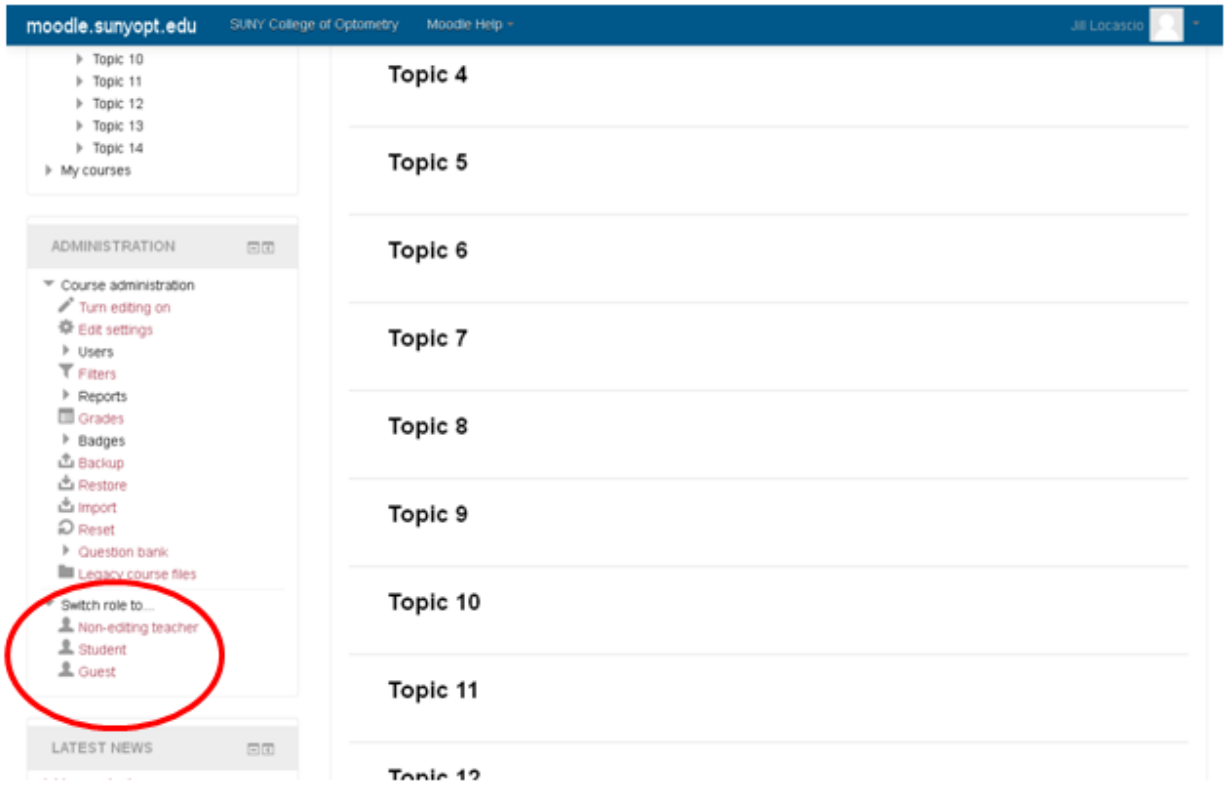
You can also choose to make your list public which would allow other instructors to copy it in.

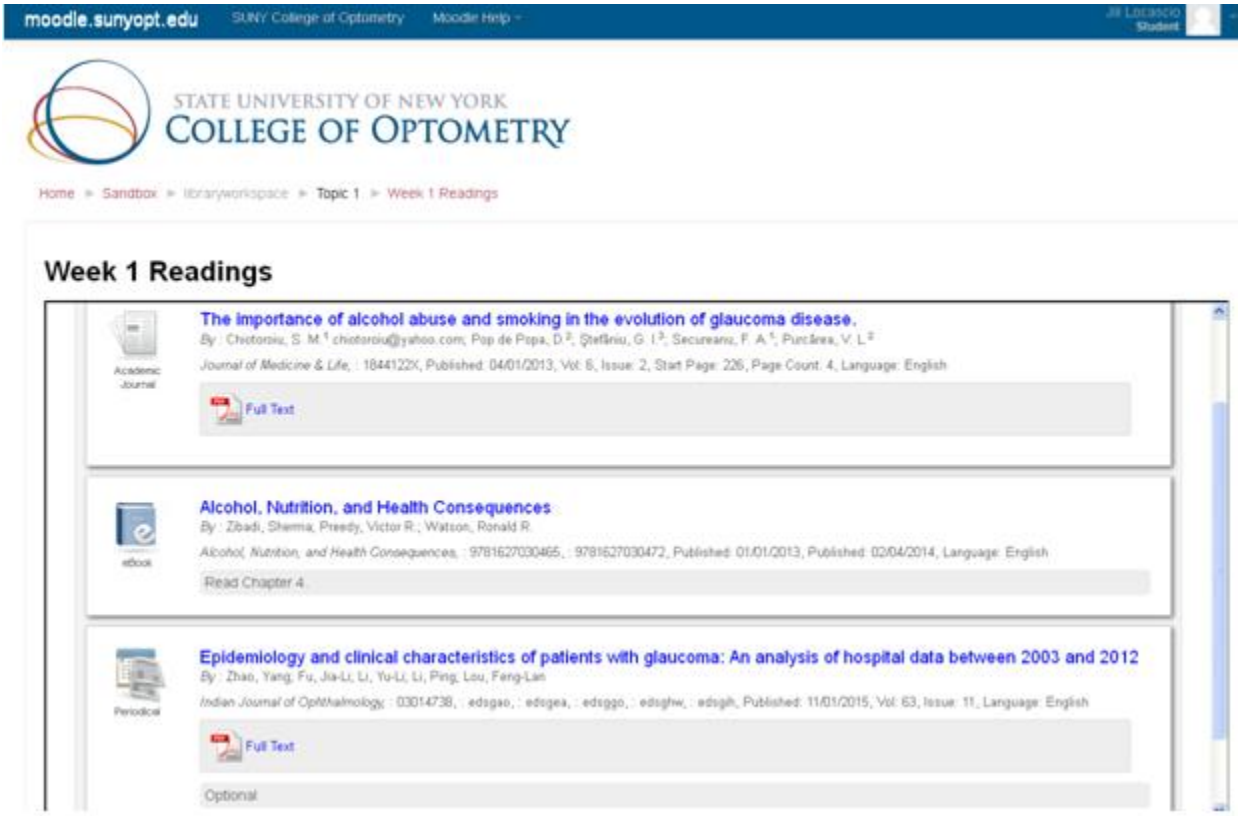
When you are finished, click the link to your course's page.

Click “Turn editing off”



Preview the list by clicking “Change role to” and choosing “Student”.



Then click on the link to the reading list.


This is what the students will see when they access the reading list. They will be able to click out to any full text articles that the library has access to.
